

5

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A wireless transmission system operating in a 60 GHz frequency range includes fixed hubs (public download server) and mobile terminals. The fixed hubs have antennas with a wide angle beam shape. The mobile terminals have antennas with a narrow angle beam shape. The fixed hubs (public download server) are connected by way of a connection line to an information source such as a network backbone or a main server.